Director's Notes

What a pleasure it has been to direct one of the all time classic children's stories. A wonderful tale of true friendship and trust.

We've had quite a journey from conception to performance and I couldn't have asked for a better cast and crew. How do you thank all the folks that have helped you out? I feel like the priest who says the 'God bless...' blessing and goes on and on mentioning everyone you can imagine. I always thought, 'Why can't he just say 'God bless everyone' and be done with it?'

So,

God Bless Everyone

Many things would not have gotten done without the extraordinary work of our Technical and Production Crews. They are the ones that get the true credit for our production. The look and feel of the barns are due to their imagination and diligence.

The many, many young people that are a part of this show are to be congratulated. They managed to live through my director's perception and put on a truly fabulous production. I'm proud of every one of them from the leads to my baby spiders. And yes, Libby, you are included as you have been young at heart longer than any of them.

Finally, thank you, our audience. It is for you that we suffer long nights in rehearsal and time away from our families. Your support and applause make it all worthwhile. Come back soon!
