Director's Notes

It's been four years since I accepted the joyous task of transforming a historic movie house into a flourishing arts center.

During this holiday season, I am especially pleased with my decision to move to this beautiful city and make a commitment to share any talent, knowledge or passion for theatre and the performing arts, that lives inside me, with members and supporters of the Alban arts community and the citizens of St. Albans. Before learning about the gift of sharing from L. Frank Baum's Santa Claus, we must first acknowledge that the world is not always so generous and kind, and people can sometimes be big Angwas. But just as Santa made the decision to claim and share a joyful attitude, so should we develop inner joy that can explode into something way bigger than any of us. When that joy is shared and shared again, good spirit is vast and the power of belief is relentless. Inner joy gives people hope for brighter futures and stronger friendships.

Just as people believed in me, so are others believing in you. As we enjoy this tale about "The Life and Adventures of Santa Claus," believe in the spirit of Claus and the mighty joy associated with giving and receiving blessings and a true appreciation for the arts.

Merry Christmas to all, and to all, an Alban good night.
